

EPSOM Residents

Thanks for participating in Epsom Roadside Clean-up

A big thank you to the many citizens who helped with roadside cleanup this Spring. You will be receiving your Daffodils in the fall for planting. For those of you who helped and haven't sent in your tally and the roadside you cleaned, it is not too late to send your info and be eligible to receive bulbs. Contact alisonparodi@metrocast.net or to the Town of Epsom Conservation Commission PO Box 10 Epsom, 03234. The deadline is July 1st, 2010.

There are many to thank for their work. Sue Bosiak cleaned up over 10.5 miles of road in her neighborhood. In addition she found tires and if you can believe this a hot tub! Thankfully the road agent assisted with the removal of these items. Those on Lord's Mill and Hoit Road Area can thank Bob Stefano and Christina Talbot for their good work.

Throughout the year the Schultz Family including Chrissy, Cecily (6), and Sarah May, (9) do a section of Black Hall Road and River Road and the children are proud of their contribution. You probably thought that folks weren't littering as much. Truth is Epsom has asked citizens to help with roadside clean-up in their areas for 20 years...where would all that trash be if we didn't pick it up. The Bealieu family reported that the daffodil bulbs that they received last year were blooming beautifully when time came to clean-up a section of Range Road this Spring. Students at Epsom Central participate in clean up of the school area and learn the value of recycling. And Gina and family regularly clean-up Center Hill Road which seems to be a popular litter spot. Eric Orff who writes a great column, NH Nature Stories on the Epsom Town Website under Conservation News www.epsonnh.org did his part. The doting grandfather taught his granddaughters the value of community service on River Road.

Webster Park is a big job every year. There are others who help with other areas on this never ending task. So thank you for your part and thank the neighbors you see helping out and doing their part.

The Epsom Conservation Commission coordinates the program and the bulbs are donated by Litter Free NH.

So won't you help? Do it in honor of your neighborhood and the natural beauty of Epsom. Send in what you did. Again Thank you, The Epsom Conservation Commission.
